

Northland Tank

Designed with your home décor in mind, these water tanks will sit flush up against any wall as an interesting addition to your home.

This is not your traditional water collecting system! Created to look like stacked firewood, the tank will sit flush up against any wall as an interesting addition to your home.

It features two threaded spigots at the side of the tank, at separate heights so you can fill up your watering can or hook up your garden hose with ease.
